At the beginning of the third Millennium the artistic culture of Uzbekistan intends to meet the contemporary needs. It is observed in all the branches of disciplines and culture, as well as in the branch of "The psychology of artistic feeling", which is relatively new for the republic.

As it is known, creative works are arised according to the regularities of beauty. The graphic art is intervined with the disciplines of philosophy and psychology.

It is peculiar to mix the contrasted theories and ideas, to use the different methods for works in the jenre of picture in contemporary Uzbek graphc art. Modernism was a lonely method before the independence, rejecting in its structure abstarctionizm, suprematism, surrealism and other branches.

The combination of the realistic schools with archaicks in the past is seen in modern art. This synthesis creates a new plastic language in graphic art. Majority of artists spontaneously learn the art of the range of countries of the world during the years of Independence. They have an opportunity to see their works, to analyze and to conduct new research against the background of the world graphic art.

The theory of art united with psychology in early XX. Hovewer, they have developed the society's outlook in different shapes, having a great impact on each other.

RESEARCH RESULTS

The interrelations between art and psychology became deeper and proved that the impact of the creative work traced back to psychologic mechanisms while explaining the influence of the art on the person.

In the threshold of Independence the new directions appeared in the graphic art of Uzbekistan.

The palaces of culture, galleries and exhibition halls founded by the initiative of the president of our republic, art educational establishments serve to bring up the perfect, cultured and harmonious youth and increase virtuosity of the young people[2].

It has also taken place in the goals and objectives of the modern international Tashkent art workshop, the international exhibition “Art is a symbol of humanity and creation”, which has been traditionally holding since 2001. The works of creators have never been so enormous in bringing people to benevolence, culture and cooperation as in this period of globalization.

The basic aim of the exhibition is to introduce the achievements in art and culture to foreign and native art amateurs and create the conditions to favourable creative communication of artists and art historians. Therefore, the interest and attention to the conference arise on the international level. Mainly, in the workshop of the modern art, which will be held on March, 6 in Tashkent the artists of many countries such as Great Britain, Belgium, Azerbaijan, the Ukrain, Russia, Iran, Singapour, China, South Korea will participate.
